

Strangers

Sam Tompkins

She's in the passenger seat of my car, yeah
I don't know how I let this get so far
All of these open wounds are gonna scar
But I just come home and put on my charm, yeah

I should've stayed home
I should've laid low (laid low)
Knowing that you wait on me, yeah
Called on a payphone, saying I'm with my day ones
You see what's going on, but girl you know

I'm out looking for danger
I'm attracted to strangers
Please excuse my misbehaviour
If there's a game then I'm a player
I'm out looking for danger
I'm attracted to strangers
So please don't tell me what your name is
I ain't that bad I'm just impatient

You tryna to talk to me but I don't care
Then I get angry with all of the shit you wear, now
Craving all of the attention that's going spare
Somehow get angry even though I'm never there, yeah

I get so I'm jealous
But I've been reckless
Hoping that you wait on me
You act so selfless
But I could care less
You see what's going on, but girl you know

I'm out looking for danger
I'm attracted to strangers
Please excuse my misbehaviour
If there's a game then I'm a player
I'm out looking for danger
I'm attracted to strangers
So please don't tell me what your name is
I ain't that bad I'm just impatient

I cannot see the damage I'm causing
We don't speak the same language no more, and
We go through so much effort to force it
That's why I can't just show some remorse, and

I'm out looking for danger
I'm attracted to strangers
Please excuse my misbehaviour
If there's a game then I'm a player
I'm out looking for danger
I'm attracted to strangers
So please don't tell me what your name is
I ain't that bad I'm just impatient
