

Lights Out Little Hustler

Samiam

You wake up with a sigh
After sleeping on your secret
Shrinking back to back all night
There's always something there between you

What makes you so hard for me to find
When you're right by my side
I look for you every day
Always something in the way

Before you reach for what you need
Behind the line of fragile objects
Better be prepared to catch them
Or run when they fall

What makes you so hard for me to find
When you're right by my side
I look for you every day
Always something in the way

Meet in the doorway, face to face
Step back and say nothing
You roll your eyes to find the wall
Always in the way

What makes you so hard for me to find
When you're right by my side
I look for you every day
There's always something in the way

There's always something in the way
There's always something in the way
(Why are you so hard to find)
There's always something in the way
(Why are you so hard to find)
There's always something in the way
(Why are you so hard to find)
There's always something in the way
(Why are you so hard to find)
There's always something in the way
