September

Samiam

September holiday through the failing light
So far away from here should I chase you around?

Does your secret comfort you
Will it give you strength in your final hours?

I hear you in the room, there's a peaceful feeling
I know that you're not there but my mind is still willing
When you blow through town will you keep me guessing?
Fade on pills, everything's all right since you disappeared
There's just so much time

Why bring her back if you can live her down?
