

Everybody's Hero

Sampa the Great

Everybody need a hero
Better yet, better reload
You begging like I'm sipping on De Niro
Started from the village, now we here doe
Get a cape
A villain from a hundred to a zero
Straighten up your posture
An imposter, got a cape
Now you activating you a leader, baby, please
Let it marinate
Anyone who speaking like they speaking for the people
Baby gotta know is fake, break
I heard you tried to come off the streets
I heard they said you got an education and degrees
Rapping in arenas, now you selling out a stage
Bet you though they spitting in your face
Colour never change

Everybody hero
Everybody hero
Everybody
Hero

It goes like clockwork, Austin, yes we have a problem
How you tryna cover where you from like we forgotten?
Back when we were sipping on our sugar tea for dinner
Back when you was hustling, back when you was struggling
Right before we dared to dream of how we would come up of in A strange cold world of the lowest of the lowest
You made it but you standing on a pyramid of hopeless
'Cause now you were everybody hope is
Everybody jokers
Everybody know that they provoke this
Try to tell you where they think your goals is Everybody motives
When you try to dream with what you have
All a sudden fingers pointing see the vultures
Everybody wrote this, everybody mad
Everybody stunted on the chances that they had
Think of the all expectations everybody had
Took it on your shoulders and wore everybody's bag
Hero

Everybody hero, everybody hero
Everybody hero, everybody hero

Please don't fall that fast
I beg again
Cape don't go that fast
I beg again, let me explain
I might be gorgeous in the darkness
I light my way up from the darkness
Perfection never was me
No hero is, no hero is
Please don't fall that fast
I beg again
Cape don't go that fast

I beg again
Please don't fall that fast
I beg again

Everybody hero, everybody hero, everybody hero
Everybody hero
With everybody here though

I might be gorgeous in the darkness
I light my way up from the darkness
Perfection never was me
