

Plastic 100°C

Sampha

"I'll work my way over into the sunlight here without looking directly into the sun"

Magnetic lights in the blue-high haze
A magnifying glass upon my face

It's so hot I've been melting out here
I'm made out of plastic out here
You touch down in the base of my fears
Houston, can-can-can you hear?
And we both had to harness our pain
Close it and hope it decays
Oh, in heaven I'm up and away
Up and away

I loved those mornings, when the sun's up
Smoking in the lobby, waiting for my name to pop up, yeah, pop up Usually I'd run home, and tuck the issue under Oh, sleeping with my worries, yeah, I didn't really know what that lump was,
my luck

It's so hot I've been melting out here
I'm made out of plastic out here
You touch down in the base of my fears
And that's when your beauty appears
It's so hot I've been melting out here
I'm made out of plastic out here
You touch down in the base of my fears
Houston, can-can-can you hear me now?

You didn't know what the scarecrow is
It's like outer space in his inner ears
And like a blossom you opened up
And understood why you could not love, oh

It's so hot I've been melting out here
I'm made out of plastic out here
You touch down in the base of my fears
Houston, can-can-can you hear?
I've been melting, melting down here
I'm made out of plastic out here
You touch down in the base of my fears
Houston, can-can-can you hear me no?

"I'll work my way over into the sunlight here without looking directly into the sun"

Sky-high deflating like this Thriving of your lessons; yes, you are my lantern
A shy like light comes around my ears
The more you speak, the more I see
The more your lights grows upon me
And the more it grows, the closer I think you are, the closer I think you are
To sing me hope
But if you don't like what you see, silhouettes inside of dreams
And I'm melting from the light

Wondering 'bout a time
(Two four two zero)
I'm melting from the light
One drip, one drip at a time

"I think you're pulling the wrong one
I'm just...Okay. I'm ready to pull it down now"
