

Find Yourself Here Again

San Cisco

I know you don't want to be better off alone
But you don't have to worry 'bout that
The feeling won't change
When you find someone to call your own
Did you forget your friends?
'Cause you don't believe in pinky promises
All good things come to an end

You didn't hear a word I said
You've made up your mind
You're head over heels again

I know you try real hard
But you shouldn't really have to pretend
I know it's never your fault
But you keep finding yourself here again

Lilac Cadillac
You were going flat chat
It felt like the world was yours
Uncertainty was just a distant memory
In the forefront of your mind
The mission you were on tonight
It wasn't what you had planned for
But sometimes it goes that way
I know it's easier to leave than stay

Did you miss the sign that said
You should turn around?
You're getting caught up in your head again

I know you try real hard
But you shouldn't really have to pretend
I know it's never your fault
But you keep finding yourself here again

Did you miss the sign that said
You should turn around?
You're getting caught up in your head again

I know you try real hard
You shouldn't really have to pretend
I know it's never your fault
But you keep finding yourself here again