It's clear weather all the way through
Right that's how the blue color should be
We had to meet on a fine day like this
So that we can spend such a rare day together

There were not many days with unclear air between us
The excitement from being able to see you every day
I remember you as the respirator of that season
But now I run out breath longing for you

Whenever I think of you where you may be
As I live my easy-going life pretending it's not
Even if it's a bit awkward it's somewhat livable
Even the days that are harder to bear

This street is a bit strange without you but it's okay
It's okay if the steps I take are light
Someday I'll walk again with someone

On the street in such fine weather

I'll change too just like the sky clears after rain
You said nothing lasts forever
Once I endure this season we'll be perfect strangers
When this cruel fine weather passes by

Whenever I think of you where you may be
As I live my easy-going life pretending it's not
Even if it's a bit awkward it's somewhat livable
Even the days that are harder to bear

This street is a bit strange without you but it's okay
It's okay if the steps I take are light
Someday I'll walk again with someone
On the street in such fine weather

Maybe I alone put too much meaning to the past
Like the people smiling so brightly outside the window
I just need to live like that they do it so easily
It's no big deal it was just one-time love

So what I don't have love the sun is comforting me
It says it would shine upon me even if I were alone
Regardless everything will be fine we were so happy together
Just for that I thank you

Like today's weather I hope your days shine
You can erase the past with just one smile
With a deep breath I take thanks to the clear air
I cover you up with that blue sky
I send you away to that blue sky
