

Signal

Sara Groves

All the cliches about how fast kids grow are true
I woke up this morning eye to eye with you
The love songs and adages couldn't explain the whole
Of all you're becoming, body and soul

Your heart goes out I can hear your song
Your signal is getting stronger, your signal is getting strong
There's no cliché when I hear your song
Your signal is getting stronger, your signal is getting strong

Many cliches about living this life are true
The path is worn but for us it's new
There's no way to know it without discovery
Marking our missteps with mercy

Your heart goes out I can hear your song
Your signal is getting stronger, your signal is getting strong
There's no cliché when I hear your song
Your signal is getting stronger, your signal is getting strong

Yeah its all been said
But don't be afraid
To throw back your head
And sing anyway

Your heart goes out I can hear your song
Your signal is getting stronger, your signal is getting strong
There's no cliché when I hear your song
Your signal is getting stronger, your signal is getting strong

All the cliches about how much I love you are true
As big as the sky and up to the moon
A million a zillion, infinity plus one
