Something New In My Life

Sarah Geronimo

I guess I wanted something new in my life A new key to fit a new door To wake and see a different view in my life The one I've been waiting for Dreams like everyone I've had a few in my life Who knew that this one would come true in my life I knew the moment when you touched me You touched me You're like a sudden breeze that blew in my life A new face a new smile new song And now I know I wanted you in my life all along I guess I must have saved an empty place in my heart For you to come and fill this space in my heart That long before I said I loved you I love you Whatever happens this is true in my life When all the springs have come and gone Whatever dance I made or do in my life Whatever else that I may do in my life You'll always be something new in my life From now on I know there always will be you in my life From now on
