

Someone You Hate

Sasha Sloan

Told your mama I'd take care of you
Loaded up the car, drove into the dark
Billboard signs and skylines painted blue
We made it home, but I felt alone

We were growing, growing apart
And I knew I had to break your heart
So off I went, haven't seen you since
I went from

Someone you held, you held when you were lonely
Someone you called, you called your one and only
I threw it all away
I went from someone you love to someone you hate

Summer nights were feeling kinda strange
Sleeping back to back
I knew we'd never last

We were growing, growing apart
And I knew I had to break your heart
So off I went, haven't seen you since
I went from

Someone you held, you held when you were lonely
Someone you called, you called your one and only
I threw it all away
I went from someone you love to someone you hate
I know we talked, we talked about forever
I know you thought, thought we'd end up together
I threw it all away
I went from someone you love to someone you hate

Told your mama I'd take care of you
They say people change, well I guess it's true
I went from

Someone you held, you held when you were lonely
Someone you called, you called your one and only
I threw it all away
I went from someone you love to someone you hate
I know we talked, we talked about forever
I know you thought, thought we'd end up together
I threw it all away
I went from someone you love to someone you hate
