

Devil's Dozen

Satariel

You good lord above - these gnostic words I say to thee, if I somehow might be wrong You're a failure as sure as I fail to be thy depiction
As if there actually would be something hearing all words, I ramble these words though I know it will not pay off anyhow, just like prayers are the missleads greatest curse
By the Devil's dozen - existence must be cursed
By the Devil's dozen - I hope evolution goes reversed
I know that I some extent can see what's above Daath but it repulses me, and I doubt that I know at all what's the point of it all as Kether wishes to hide behind that which shunes the light of illumination Illumination...
When I in questions in drunken haze blur, and I fail to understand thine magick, O sir I know that if there would be a devil as believed -
I surely would sell my soul without regret But unfortunately every lie must die as I awake the true I so you of good, and you of evil - You're but the symbols of how we fail
That there would be any kind of god must be the greatest ever told lie... for the god am I
By the Devil's dozen - existence must be cursed By the Devil's dozen -
I hope evolution goes reversed
