

Primordial

Satin Jackets

The sky is falling
Don't look up tonight
Aren't you tired of running
Let our worlds collide
Chaos is calling
Don't be calm tonight
Can we just live in the moment
We don't have much time

I don't care - one could only wish for what we have
They all stare cause a love like this they wish they had

They only watch because our love is so primitive
Our love is so primitive
They only watch because our love is so primitive
Our love is so primitive
They only watch because our love is so primitive
Our love is so primitive
They only watch because our love is so primitive
Our love is so primitive

The stars are falling
Let's enjoy the plight
And as the world is burning
We'll dance with the fire
There will be judgement
Let them crucify
Cause in the end I want nothing
But you by my side

I don't care - one could only wish for what we have
They all stare cause a love like this they wish they had

They only watch because our love is so primitive
Our love is so primitive
They only watch because our love is so primitive
Our love is so primitive
They only watch because our love is so primitive
Our love is so primitive
They only watch because our love is so primitive
Our love is so primitive

They only watch because our love is so primitive
Our love is so primitive
They only watch because our love is so primitive
Our love is so primitive
They only watch because our love is so primitive
Our love is so primitive
They only watch because our love is so primitive
Our love is so primitive
