

Empty Skies

Saviour

Believe in empty skies if that is what you want
Even the deepest oceans are allowed to feel shallow sometimes
You can be fabricated if that's who you are
You should do everything you want to do
Be anyone you want to be

Breathe withering bloom
Believe in yourself for a change
Because the sun will only shine half the time

And when you need me
You'll know where to find me

Believe in empty skies if that is what you want
Searching for an incomparable wealth
You could have found in yourself

Believe in empty skies if that is what you want
But when you're lost
You will know where to find me

Breathe withering bloom
Believe in yourself for a change
Because the sun will only shine, will only shine

Because the sun will only shine
Half the time
We waste our time
We wait in line
We miss the signs
Then wonder
Where did the time go?
Start over again

And then we lose ourselves
And lose the spark
To find ourselves
Inside the dark
It's too late
Where did our lives go?
Start over again

Darling where did the time go?
But I know you'll find your way
Start over again

Darling where did our lives go?
But I know you'll find your way

Start over again
And when you need me
