

Passengers

Saviour

If I could just break through
A lifetime of elations to undo
From the space I adore
How could I ask you for more?
This place is melancholy like your poetry
With broken glass on the floor
I think we've been here before

I think we've been here before
You're not the fuck up that you think you are
We're all tarnished and blemished and flawed
I think we've been here before
You're not the fuck up that you think you are
We're all tarnished and blemished and flawed

But maybe if you open your eyes
You can free my mind
And if you find some place better
Then please don't come back
This time I'm telling you
To leave me behind
And I'll be fine for the mean time

I've been passing through this lifetime
Like I'm a fucking passenger

I've been passing through this lifetime

With a fear
That I will never shake
'Cause I held you back once before
How could I ask you for more?
I hope that you go far
Become the diamond that I know you are

But maybe if you open your eyes
You can free my mind
And if you find some place better
Then please don't comeback
This time I'm telling you
To leave me behind
And I'll be fine for the mean time

I'll give in, I'll give out, I'll give up
Give it all that you've got
Give it all that you've got
I'll give in, I'll give out, I'll give up
Give it all that you've got
Give it all that you've got

You get what you give
Give it all that you've got
You get what you give
