

Mack Daddy

Say Anything

Last night I woke up in the evening
Just as the sun began to fall
Resolved to stroll down the street to your house
Just to show that I've got balls

But when I came upon your window
I knew I'd come there far too late
Because someone beat me to you
I guess you're happy
Because I recognize that smile from better days

But he put the moves on you, he put the moves on you
The rain just won't stop pouring since
The day he put the moves on you
He put the moves on you

Now every day is like a nightmare
And at night in bed can't help but stay awake
It wasn't too long ago that I stood outside your window
Not some handsome boy I don't know

But he put the moves on you, he put the moves on you
The rain just won't stop pouring since
The day he put the moves on you
He put the moves on you

And when he's kissing you just like I always used to
I hope it kills you knowing what you did to me
He put the moves on you
But you will break him too
The same as the last one, the same as the last one

But he put the moves on you, he put the moves on you
The rain just won't stop pouring since
The day he put the moves on you

He put the moves on you (He put the moves on you)
He put the moves on you (He put the moves on you)
He put the moves on you (He put the moves on you)
He put the moves on you
