

Jagged Melody

Scott Matthews

You told yourself
There was nothing left to live for
The final door
Is hidden in a wreath of
Questions and suggestions
You have always ignored
Maybe now it's time you took this as a sign
That you're worth so much more

Don't be scared
You're head is full of misery
Can't you see it's playing tricks
With your dreams and churning
Them into a sea of stagnant defeat
Maybe now it's time you let the waves collide
And drag you to the shore

Maybe in this jagged melody
You'll find the pieces that you had misplaced
In your broken mind
Sadness is a bruise
So I'll leave the trust in you
I know that you'll pull through

So roam now
You're heading to another place
Just you
Nothing left in your view
The blinds came down as this old town
Expired and withdrew
It's long and bitter hold on you

Maybe in this jagged melody
You'll find the piece of mind you had misplace
In your broken mind
Sadness is a bruise
So I'll leave the trust in you
I know that you'll pull through
