

The Outsider

Scott Matthews

Do you take thee
Lonely road, just you and me
To have, to hold all night?
I promise thee nothing if you promise me
Yours come first light

I'm strong and free
But bending easy in the breeze
It's hard if you don't weaken in this life

Still I hope, I pray for now
I fool the lonely road
As we exchange our vows
I take thee, lawful road
To be my heaven bound
For better, for worse

Desire remains,
Pounding at my heart again,
As it beats inside the outsider
No one can deceive
If your heart refuses to believe
That your eyes will never grow wider

Still I hope, I pray for now
I fool the lonely road
As we exchange our vows
I take thee, lawful road
To be my heaven bound
For better, for worse
I will love you 'til I'm gone
