Relearn Love

Scott Stapp

On a dark and lonely highway
I need the Son to raise my head
I come before you, I am naked
The man I am now must be shed
I've weathered storms and I am broken
My beaten heart is in your hands
What I really need is shelter and a chance

To relearn love
Teach me all over, all over
To relearn love
Show me again
So I can relearn love

The comfort of your arms around me
Your tender hands caress my head
I lay beside you, I'm not worthy
This jaded man's not who I am
I've touched the flame and I've been burned
All I need is a second chance
Give me eyes of a child
And teach this man

To relearn love
Teach me all over, all over
To relearn love
Show me again
So I can relearn love

To relearn love
Teach me all over, all over
To relearn love
Show me again
So I can relearn love

I was selfish, but you still loved me
You gave me the greatest gift of all
And it set me free

When time means nothing
And your world is standing still
Listen world, he's calling
If you feel me, drop down and kneel
Can you feel it?
Just remember, oh, oh, remember
To relearn love
