

Forget Me

Scrubs

shouldn't have given you my number may as well have given you a remote control to my happiness; it's only been 49 hours but it feels like so long, it feels like so long i shouldn't let this suck the life out of me i shouldn't let it even bother me but i'm not stopping it i won't let you forget
if it means anything i'll be alright we traveled the world that night but now my universe is only you tonight my head isn't where it should be on my pillow all alone i still smell you on my clothes and it hurts me in my lungs the moon just seemed to swallow me down and by dawn today it was laughing at me

but i'm not stopping it
i won't let you forget me won't let you forget me so long, so long, so long, so long the moon just swallowed me down
and now it's laughing at me
