

Trick (So Sweet)

Seaway

There's nothing that I hate
More than when you call when I'm away
Save me for the perfect rainy day
And I'm out caught in the storm

When all I want to do is be close to you
Every second that I get.
But you're a trick. You're a trick so sweet
And I never thought that it would bother me

I'll wave this white flag and surrender myself
To the thought of saving face in spite of everyone else
And that's including myself, but I hope that you miss me

Not once. Not twice. Not a second before
The third time you had me sleeping on your neighbour's floor
I'm too drunk. Where's the light? "To the right of the door."
You said, "Sorry there's this guy that I've been falling for."

And I'm caught off guard, but it's still no surprise
That I'm just another one of your oblivious guys.
But you're a trick. You're a trick so sweet
And I never thought that it would ever bother me

I'll wave this white flag and surrender myself
To the thought of saving face in spite of everyone else
And that's including myself, but I hope that you miss me

I'm picking up what you're throwing down.
You only care when I'm not there.
So I'll ask you one last time,
When I'm home will you be mine?
If not then there's nowhere left to be
And I'll keep hoping you miss me

I'll wave this white flag and surrender myself
To the thought of saving face in spite of everyone else
And that's including myself, but I hope that you miss me

I'll wave this white flag and surrender myself
To the thought of saving face in spite of everyone else
And that's including myself, but I hope that you miss me
