Why Change

Seeb

You were out making trouble with some older guys
Getting high in the park on a Tuesday
17 ripped jeans 2 years older than I
Playing on the wilder side

There were times you would knock on my window at night
Said d'ya wanna run away with me
I pretended to be cool
Said I got things to do
But I was madly into you

And I thought that one day I was gonna save you
But you said you don't need no fucking saviour
Cause baby we are one in a million
So why change, why change

Let's drink to every little imperfection
'Cause in my mind there's no question
That baby we are one in a million
So why change why change
Why change, why change

We would lie on our backs under open skies
Sharing smokes and a couple of secrets
I was shy as a child, the worrying kind
But with you I can finally see it

So here's to the ones got it figured out
And here's to all the lost ones
We grow in whatever we've been through
And we'll take whatever comes

And I thought that one day I was gonna save you
But you said you don't need no fucking saviour
Cause baby we are one in a million
So why change, why change

Let's drink to every little imperfection
'Cause in my mind there's no question
That baby we are one in a million
So why change, why change
Why change, why change

So why change, why change
Why change, why change

Why change, why change
