

I am at a loss at how to deal with so much loss
Forced to walk over a bridge that I don't wanna cross
I don't believe in any God quite enough to pray
So why would he listen to a word I have to say?

See you in the sunshine
See you when the, see you when the rain comes down
I see you in everything
Even though you're, even though you're not around

Stuck in the material is blue without your face
So empty without your words, without your grace
Even God would tell us that this is just not okay
And still, he won't listen to a word I have to say

See you in the sunshine
See you when the, see you when the rain comes down
I see you in everything
Even though you're, even though you're not around

See you in the sunshine
See you when the, see you when the rain comes down
I see you in everything
Even though you're, even though you're not around
See you in the sunshine
See you when the, see you when the rain comes down
I see you in everything
Even though you're, even though you're not around
See you in the sunshine
See you when the, see you when the rain comes down
I see you in everything
Even though you're, even though you're not around
