

What Now

Self Esteem

And you can see me running through the forest in a dream scene
Teeth falling from my lips, I mean cascading
And you can't pull them up, neither can I
What am I really so fucking scared of on the daily?
My kingdom, baby, to think clearly
For one single second of my life

Time is alive, time is the atmosphere
No use forcing it linear, just look at how far you've got
You finally have enough
I know that should mean something, but it doesn't mean a lot right now
It doesn't mean a lot

And I can feel me turning hopes and dreams into a memory
Spinning light and kind to something heavy
If I just look away, then I won't know
Apply that softly to every step you take until you're holding Only nothing that can break, if there's no stakes, you can't lose
But I expected more of you

Time is alive, time is a chance to heal
Be brave enough to use it for the things you fear, just look at how far you've got
Look at your lot
Let it bring you peace, but it will never be enough
No, it'll never be enough

If you know, you know
If you know, you know
If you know, you know
And I know, I know
If you know, you know
Let it bring you peace
If you know, you know
If you know, you know
If you know, let it bring you peace
And I know, I know