Tell me the first thing you feel When you're taking in air Tell me the first thing you feel When your body could care less About the time of day About what people say Tell me the first thing you feel After you close your eyes Do you recognize The voice that's been telling you all this time He's been watching over you Listening to every single word Thinking out everything Do you realize He's been watching over you Listening to every single song Singing out everything Everything... (x3)

Tell me the first thing you feel
When I reach to touch you
Tell me the first thing you feel
When you smile and you cry
Do you recognize
The voice that's been telling you all this time
He's been watching over you
Listening to every single word
Thinking out everything
Do you realize
He's been watching over you
Listening to every single song
Singing out everything
It's about time, I'll race you home (x4)
