

Come Home

Serious Black

There's a spirit with you
And he's dying to tell you
Yes, he's dying to tell you
Come home
See that hole in your heart
That you're trying to fill
You just can't seem to fill
He knows

And he wants you to know
There's no shame in surrender
There's no shame in defeat

You were friends long ago
But you fell out, he says
O'er one stupid mistake
Much too young, much too proud
It was too much to take
The mistakes that we make
We make

And he wants you to know
There's no shame in surrender
There's no shame in defeat

Please, come home

He knows wisdom takes age
But he knew right away
He'd regret it some day
You know
One cruel word broke his heart
Now it tears you apart
It still tears you apart

And he wants you to know
There's no shame in surrender
There's no shame in defeat

They're still waiting for you
Just one word would do wonders
Just one word and you'll see
You will come home
Yeah, you are
Yeah, you are

Please, come home