

So kill me now
All the times we bled, all the ones we left too long
What's done is done
There's a price we paid, and a time we die alone

I want something better than nothing
Something's better than nothing

Hold on the first one to let go
Where's the burden that breaks us all?
So breathe in
For the ones we lost
We hold our own, we hold our own

So here we are
From the darkest days, to the comfort of the sun
The silver tongues
All the lies we tell ourselves, in the end we're wrong

I want something better than nothing
Something's better than nothing

Hold on the first one to let go
Where's the burden that breaks us all?
So breathe in
For the ones we lost
We hold our own, we hold our own

Such a long way home
And you're not gonna take me
And if all hope's gone
I'll carry the burden home

Hold on the first one to let go
Where's the burden that breaks us all?
So breathe in
For the ones we lost
We hold our own, we hold our own
