Levy Your Soul From Hate

Seventh Avenue

Tears are falling in silence and fear Escape your life from your master thought Never stop this healing hand That will keep you till your end

Break free from this dimension Feel the rain and release the tension Remember those days that your mind was full of joy But now you carry your sins Pray to god make them undone But even god won't change the past

Inside your soul screams loud Why are you still so proud? For you the world won't cry Kiss your old life goodbye

Out of the dark get into the light Hope will kill the never ending night The world has lost another slave Levy your soul from hate

Leave your old life far behind Don't you look back in any kind No more hate shall rule your mind Your sins were paid in blood a long time ago A cross on a hill sealed Satan's fate An empty grave levies your soul from hate
