

Sky Is Falling

Seventh Day Slumber

Oh no, here it goes again
Terrified, paralyzed and
There's nowhere to go from here
Oh no, what's the fix again?
Say these words, take the hurt but
It starts all over again

You wanna fight, then wanna die
You can't win

You think the sky is falling
From the weight of the chains
That you won't put down
You think the sky is falling
You can breathe, it's alright
It's not over unless you give up the fight

Oh no, why were you not there?
So alone with my thoughts that
Have already left me dead
Oh no, it's always the same
I escape, I come back but
It starts all over again

You wanna fight, then wanna die
You can't win

You think the sky is falling
From the weight of the chains
That you won't put down
You think the sky is falling
You can breathe, it's alright
It's not over unless you give up the fight

You victimize yourself
But you always place the blame
On someone else
(And you're the anchor now)
You separate yourself
From the ones who really cared
And tried to pull you out
From the hell you're in

You think the sky is falling
From the weight of the chains
That you won't put down
You think the sky is falling
You can breathe, it's alright
It's not over unless you give up the fight