

Geronimo

Shannon McNally

I do it again and again I listen for visions and missions in the wind I won the vote but shunned the soft parade and now I'm picking garbage a true sage's trade I won every battle and lost the war You dared me to reach for it dared me to know so I drove that car just as slow as it would go listening for the sound of my last hope hit the ground won every battle but lost the war you managed to take more than I had with your greedy treaties and your rubber badge you may have won every battle but you lost the war Well I only did what I knew simple math nothing more nothing less if you hadn't of told me i never would have guessed how hungry was your hate how sealed was my fate I won every battle but lost the war you managed to take more than I had
with your greedy treaties and your rubber badge
you may have won every battle but you lost the war
you may have won every battle but you lost the war