

You Baffle Me

Shannon Wright

In the backyard today
The light ricochets
Along the dark trees
And I never thought I would be
So ready to play
Alone in your sea

You baffle me
You baffle me
You baffle me
You baffle me

And now your tongue may be bold
When I just want to hold
Your delicate cheek
And tear the page from your hymn
Your song is too grim
The night is tucked in

You baffle me
You baffle me
You baffle me
You baffle me

And the moon trails on
You speak mildly
You move in me

You baffle me
You baffle me
You baffle me
You baffle me
