

I Don't Need a Reason to Cry

Shelby Lynne

I don't need a reason to cry
About that time again, again midnight
Don't know why it's broke
I guess that's all she wrote
My heart just told me now's the time to frown

The sky didn't offer thunderstorms last night
The sun came out and spring appeared outside
The mailman brought my mail
Surprise to lift my sails
Now I'm wondering how to stay alive

I'm getting used to feeling down and out
I'm supposed to be a sorrow soul somehow
It ain't so bad being low
Just a sorrow so and so
Just a hint of gray can shake me down

Maybe I'm just better off alone
Nobody wants to make a cave a home
I got misery to share
With anyone who cares
I even got a tear or two to spare
No, I don't need a reason to cry
I don't need a reason to cry
No, I don't need a reason to cry
