

Looking For Love

Sheppard

All that I was, is all I still am
Stuck inside a box, staring at the clocks
These thoughts in my head, have spun me a web
I've waited for the one, but given in to none

I thought by now, I'd have figured out
The place where I belong, and what I'm doing wrong
'Cause I'm some kind of man looking for love
'Cause I'm some kind of man looking for love
In all the wrong places

I've torn up my youth, searching for you
And I should've caught the signs that I'd get left behind
But, now that I'm grown I'm still scared and alone and Well, maybe you're around, but I keep looking down

'Cause I'm some kind of man looking for love
'Cause I'm some kind of man looking for love
I'm looking for you

For you, oh!

Looking for, looking for, looking for love
Looking for, looking for, looking for love
Looking for, looking for, looking for love
Looking for, looking for love
Looking for love, love

Looking for, looking for, looking for love
Looking for, looking for, looking for love
Looking for, looking for, looking for love
Looking for, looking for love
Looking for love love

I'm some kind of man looking for love
'Cause I'm some kind of man looking for love
Looking for you
