

Do It Again

Sheryl Crow

Well, I've read some Eckhart Tolle
And Deepak Chopra, too
They say when you go pointing fingers
You get three pointing back at you

Well, I took a walk with Jesus
I brought along Buddha, too
You know, everyone is welcome here
On this bus to Timbuktu

All I know
Is wherever I go, there I am
All I know
Is I'm doing the best that I can
There's so much I don't know
So, I learn to let go
Let go and let love in
Every day, I get up and I do it again
Every day, I get up and I do it again

Everyone is searching
For a little piece of mind
So, I brought along some mushrooms
And I sat with the divine

And then we crossed the bridge to nowhere
And we saw the other side
Well, there is no us, there is no them
Baby, it's all in your mind

All I know
Is wherever I go, there I am
All I know
Is I'm doing the best that I can
There's so much I don't know
So, I learn to let go
Let go and let love in
Every day, I get up and I do it again
Every day, I get up and I do it again

Well, I've been down to the river
I washed away my sins
Well, every day's a nice, clean slate
For me to fuck it up again
Yeah, I'll probably fuck it up again

All I know
Is wherever I go, there I am
All I know
Is I'm doing the best that I can
There's so much I don't know
So, I learn to let go
Let go and let love in
Every day, I get up and I do it again
Every day, I let go and I let love in
Every day, I let go and I let love in
