

Halfway There

Sheryl Crow

You pull up in your Hummer and you park next to my Volt
Wearing Armani 3 piece, I wear Levi's full of holes
I might walk along the left side, and you walk along the right
We're both trying to reach the same place; we might not get there on time

But you know what's best
And I know what's best
Let's just agree to disagree
And we all know the rest, yeah

Baby, if you dare
If you really care
Baby, if you dare
Won't you meet me halfway there?
Baby, if you dare
If you really care
Baby, if you dare
Won't you meet me halfway there?
Yeah

Each and every Sunday morning, you sit in your church pew
I'm sitting on a mountain taking in this glorious view
Well, I know your God is listening, and I know mine must be too
And if God is love and love is God, then why do we argue?

I don't know why
But I wanna try
Well, we can listen to each other
Before we criticize, yeah

Baby, if you dare
If you really care
Baby, if you dare
Won't you meet me halfway there?
Baby, if you dare
If you really care
Baby, if you dare
Won't you meet me halfway there?
Whoo!

Could you meet me down the river, hash it out over a beer?
Could you smoke from the same peace pipe til our anger disappears?
You want respect (respect)
You just want love (love)
I want that too, for you, and for me, and everyone

But you know what's best
And I know what's best
Let's just agree to disagree
And give this thing a rest

Baby, if you dare
If you really care
Baby, if you dare
Won't you meet me halfway there?
Baby, if you dare
If you really care

Baby, if you dare
Won't you meet me halfway there?
Baby, if you dare
If you really care
Baby, if you dare
Won't you meet me halfway there?
Baby, if you dare
If you really care
Baby, if you dare
Won't you meet me halfway there?
Uh-huh-huh

Meet in the middle
Where the grass is green
