

This was you and me, a memory
What better place to start
Somewhere in between the final scene
We've fallen so far
And you can't go fixing everything without a heart
You can run and hide but you can't stay where you are

So hold on, you will meet your soul tonight
'Cause nothing else can help you set it right
With no one to hold your feet up to the fire
You're left waiting for the moment to ignite

Life's bigger now, brighter now
The past is dead and done
You would work it out
But don't know how to tell anyone
Yeah you hope and plead
Your questions screaming at the dark
Just waiting for the answer
Waiting for the answer

So hold on, you will meet your soul tonight
'Cause nothing else can help you set it right
With no one to hold your feet up to the fire
You're left waiting for the moment
Waiting for the moment
You're left waiting for the moment to arrive

Everyone's in love with you
And everybody cares
If every word you say is true is anybody's guess
Everyone's in love with you
And everybody stares
And after all they've done for you there's still nobody there
Everyone's in love with you
And everybody cares
If every word you say is true is anybody's guess
Everyone's in love with you
And everybody stares
And after all they've done for you there's still nobody there

So hold on you will meet your soul tonight
'Cause nothing else can help you set it right
With no one to hold your feet up to the fire

So hold on you will meet your soul tonight
'Cause nothing else can help you set it right
With no one to hold your feet up to the fire
Waiting for the moment
