

Numb

Siamese

Honestly
I didn't think I'd feel this way
The doubt in my heart
Am I running out of things to feel?
All my empathy
I slowly feel it slip away
It tears me apart
How am I supposed to deal?

Save us, save us
Or kill us, kill us dead
Save us, save us
Or kill us, kill us

So if tonight the world ends
Would I even notice?
You don't feel the rain
When it is pouring everyday
So if tonight the world ends
Would I know the difference?
Oh, can you tell me, is becoming numb a sin?
'Cause I don't feel a thing

Honestly
I didn't think I'd feel this way
I hear the world drown
But the noise is deafening
My humanity
I slowly feel it slip away
A cry with no sound
But the loudest it has ever been

Save us, save us
Or kill us, kill us dead
Save us, save us
Or kill us, kill us

So if tonight the world ends
Would I even notice?
You don't feel the rain
When it is pouring everyday
So if tonight the world ends
Would I know the difference?
Oh, can you tell me, is becoming numb a sin?
'Cause I don't feel a thing

It's the loudest it has ever been
But to me it's deafening
Is becoming numb a sin?
'Cause honestly, I don't feel a thing

Save us, save us
Or kill us, kill us dead
Save us, save us
Or kill us, kill us

So if tonight the world ends

Would I even notice?
You don't feel the rain
When it is pouring everyday
So if tonight the world ends
Would I know the difference?
Oh, can you tell me, is becoming numb a sin?
'Cause I don't feel a thing