

Yes, Say No

Siamese

Oh, how my lonely heart will know
That the time was right to let go
Because time means nothing
Time is something that left us controlled
So for now I'll say it's not your fault
We'll both know that's wrong my love

But the heart's so cold
It's not run by fear at all
But the heart's so cold
It won't wait

But the heart's so cold
It's not run by fear at all
But the heart's so cold
It won't wait

In this house
I don't long to be
It's a different world
It's not you and me
So don't break till the break of dawn
And don't wait until the early morning
I'm leaving you (yes I'm leaving)
Oh, how my lonely heart will know
It was time for me to grow
But I'm thankful too I'm thanking you

Cause things turned, and so did you
I did what I could, what about you?
I need to stand firm
I'm better off without you

In this house
I don't long to be
It's a different world
It's not you and me
So don't break till the break of dawn
Don't wait until the early morning
I'm leaving you (yes I'm leaving)
I'm leaving you (yes I'm leaving)

In this house
I don't long to be
It's a different world
It's not you and me
So don't break till the break of dawn
Don't wait until the early morning
I'm leaving you (yes I'm leaving)
I'm leaving you (yes I'm leaving)

Oh, how our lonely hearts will know
That the time was right to let go
But I'm thankful too, I'm thanking you
My love