Mistake Like You

Sigrid

I'm glad I knew
A mistake like you
Mistake like you

I got derailed, I lost direction
I showed up dressed in your rejection
An unconvincing unaffected, version of myself

I dimmed my light, and you went brighter
I couldn't even recognize it
'Cause any love that's unrequited, always hurts but

I, decided
I think that anyone would be lucky to
Make just one mistake like you
And I, I'll never be the same, never again
I think that anyone would be lucky to
Make just one mistake like you

I learned to always trust myself
And never diminish any strength or
To rearrange or shift my shape for someone else when

I, decided
I think that anyone would be lucky to
Make just one mistake like you
And I, I'll never be the same, never again
I think that anyone would be lucky to
Make just one mistake like you

I, decided
I think that anyone would be lucky to
Make just one mistake like you
And I, I'll never be the same, never again
I think that anyone would be lucky to
Make just one mistake like you
I think that anyone would be lucky to
Make just one mistake like you
