

Intervention

Silverstein

Forgive all my sins
I know I'll commit them
I know what will happen
When I trade reason for loss of control

A call to arms
With holes and scars
With healthy minds
We enlisted to war

You will see a shadow
Cast upon the light you know
There will be an angel weeping
Tears of blood that stain the earth below

You'll lose yourself
But you won't find any peace
You won't find any hope
You'll lose yourself
Is this where you belong?

You try to avoid it
You try to abstain
But it relentlessly
Takes its control

You must obey
You'll cower now
You've surpassed
Your threshold for pain

You will see a shadow
Cast upon the light you know
There will be an angel
Weeping tears of blood
That stain the earth below

You'll lose yourself
But you won't find any peace
You won't find any hope
You'll lose yourself
Is this where you be?

You are not the one who's trapped inside
You can make a difference
Look into your mind
Your memories are what defines
Who you really are

That's what makes you special, beautiful
You can still be loved
You are held in such a high regard

Your blood is contagious
Summoning desperation
Your mind is a blur, a chemical spill
You need to wipe it out

You must fight, you must fight
You must stand, you must stand
You must believe in yourself

You will see a shadow
Cast upon the light you know
There will be an angel
Weeping tears of blood
That stain the earth below

You'll lose yourself
But you won't find any peace
You won't find any hope
You'll lose yourself
Is this where you belong?