

Naivete'

Simon Curtis

Don't take advantage of my naivete

You got another love letter again
Another refraction, a deeper distraction
Just a glimpse into the heart of someone
I thought I knew
You found a way to be my lover again
Conceal my eyes in a veil, we've blind to see it
With no satisfaction, you'll get no reaction
I see right through you

I knew just a little bit more
Than you could give me credit for
I'm [?] of what they say
Don't think you'll fool me with seduction and your masquerade
You knew that I was giving you more
Than you had ever gotten before
Can't justify the things you say
Don't take advantage of my naivete
Naivete

I knew
That you
Don't take advantage of my naivete

What's the reason you can't look in my eye?
The same premonition that my intuition
Have given reason for me to believe
That you are lying
Committed treason then you cannot deny
Of all that has happened, you put this on yourself
A tainted emission, it's leave-in condition
But I'm not crying

I knew just a little bit more
Than you could give me credit for
I'm [?] of what they say
Don't think you'll fool me with seduction and your masquerade
You knew that I was giving you more
Than you had ever gotten before
Can't justify the things you say (You say)
Don't take advantage of my naivete

Ooo

I knew just a little bit more
Than you could give me credit for
I'm [?] of what they say
Don't think you'll fool me with seduction and your masquerade
You knew that I was giving you more
Than you had ever gotten before
Can't justify the things you say (You say)
Don't take advantage of my naivete
