

Religion Reduced

Simon Curtis

What do your beliefs have to say to me
You're taught to be bold in what you say
But how can you justify it down my throat
There's a better way to leave that you are known
Can't you see that biting tears is nothing but fire
Catch the popularity of someone else's life
Kaballah you're no better than the bible belt
Make a mockery of deeper things that I have felt

One, two, three
Religion Reduced
From what it can be
A wondrous tool for spreading bigotry
Religion Reduced
From what it should be
Believe in your own spirituality

Mr. Lennon Said it's best in Imagine
Would the world be better off without religion?
Don't respond, I do not intend to rattle you
Keep bitter, might want someone's holy world to just battle you
History has been proven to repeat itself Ignorance can lead to hate so educate yourself
Forcing other eyes to comprehend your vision
I think we'd all be better off without religion

One, two, three
Religion Reduced
From what it can be
A wondrous tool for spreading bigotry
Religion Reduced
From what it should be
Believe in your own spirituality

I see you contemplating
How things are meant to be
I find myself degrading
But please don't crucify me

Religion Reduced
From what it can be
A wondrous tool for spreading bigotry
Religion Reduced
From what it should be
Believe in your own spirituality
Religion Reduced
From what it can be
A wondrous tool for spreading bigotry
Religion Reduced
From what it should be
Believe in your own spirituality
Religion Reduced
From what it can be
A wondrous tool for spreading bigotry
Religion Reduced
From what it should be
Believe in your own spirituality

Religion Reduced
(From what it can be)