

Victory

Simon Curtis

And so the boy traveled on,
Undeterred, upon his quest
For he now knew
That it was not another's love that would make him real
But the love within his own heart
And with that
He knew that he would never be
Alone