Simple Minds

You know I hear you call - it's a baby doll - it's so unfair
You know the sun has gone and it won't take long and I'll meet you there
So you can wash your heart, you can play the part, just watch t he tide
The sheltered shore, the one of love once more, meets the sea o f pride

Love is a light that is shining on her
It could be an illusion - she don't seem to care
People get frightened

I hear the aftermath, I see the mad man's laugh, it's such an e vil tune
You know the special view, the one she sells to you, no more co nceit
So don't slip away, into another day, no more afraid
The white might city, so fool a pity, not for the things she sa id

Love is a light that is shining on her
People get frightened
