

Switch Off

Single Mothers

I've offered myself up for a change of pace
Yeah, one where I could love everyone and everything unconditio nally
Or, well, with some conditions pending
But more or less in the positive direction I'm sending

All I had to do was switch off
All I had to do was switch off
All I had to do was switch off
All I had to do was switch

Then things got hazy
All the lights got all lazy
Like they were shifting their weight in the space
It felt crazy but kind of amazing
Letting that dimension slip inside me
In a t-shirt that said "Every day Is Friday"

Then good ol' Lucifer, he stepped in (Stepped in)
Yeah, he said, "Let's protect him"
He was dressed so majestic
I was pretty impressed with myself in his reflection, he said
"Let me live on in your trends
Come on, man, don't just throw me away with them
My stupid sick heart, it just can't take anymore
Let the good times roll
Let the good times roll over me
Let that heart on your sleeve start to beat"
