

I cannot take it anymore, stop taking me apart
I'm just a caterpillar, you a bird eating my mind
Letting me feel the process of me slowly losing time
You taking me as your manure, making you grow your light

All these people admire you like I did before you told stories
Oh, the lies that they started believing 'bout me
Oh, it was something like I used to be taking poison
Oh, but I know that that is the self-introduction of a

Hypocrite

Lies that make other people die
You a fox or a raven that takes other people's spirit apart
To keep you alive
Be aware of the devil inside
You disguised through your spick and span illusionary life

I cannot stand these epidemic rumours, cut it out
It's like your dictating the ethic of them foolish hounds
They keep on barking gossip, but they never thought about
The truth they just need somebody to die for them to smile

All these people admire you like I did before you told stories
Oh, the lies that they started believing 'bout me
Oh, it was something like I used to be taking poison
Oh, but I know that that is the self-introduction of a

Hypocrite

Lies that make other people die
You a fox or a raven that takes other people's spirit apart
To keep you alive
Be aware of the devil inside
You disguised through your spick and span illusionary life

Hypocrite

Lies that make other people die
You a fox or a raven that takes other people's spirit apart
To keep you alive
Be aware of the devil inside
You disguised through your spick and span illusionary life