

Burning Incense

Skott

I've been burning incense
Gone a little mad
Trying to be religious
Talking to the man

Fighting to hold onto Things I never had
Happiness so fickle
Don't know how to act

But love feels so different and strange
When you say you want me
But want me to change
I don't understand
What's that?
I don't understand

And I hate how it just don't make sense
How I feel more lonely with you
Than myself
I don't understand
What's that?
I don't understand

I've been counting seconds
Turning into days
Waiting for the future
But it never came

Wishing I would grow up
But I stay the same
Staring at the raindrops
On the window pane

Love feels so different and strange
When you say you need me
But need me to change
I don't understand
What's that?
I don't understand

And I hate how it just don't make sense
How I feel more lonely with you
Than myself
I don't understand
What's that?
I don't understand

Hey, love feels so different and strange
You want me, but want me to change
Love feels so different and strange

Hey, still here I am, just the same
I want you, but want you to change
Pull you, then push you away

Hey, love feels so different and strange

You want me, but want me to change
Love feels so different and strange

Hey, still here I am, just the same
Want you, but want you to change
Pull you, then push you away

I've been burning incense
Gone a little sad
Don't know how to tell you
You won't understand