

I wake up, I'm all in
You're feelin' scared and talkin' like you ain't fallin'
I could be the man to find the feelin's that you guardin'
Baby, I know the walls are tall—just let me fall in

Yeah, I fought the bottle, but I'm done with that Already been divorced, ain't tryna run it back (Don't you know?)

You know I walk the walk, don't think I'm steppin' back
Don't go lookin' at me like I'm gonna crash and finally lapse

Oh, I know you're not sure
Like I never could be more than
The man I was
Just see what this could become

Don't you know you're everything I ever wanted?
Cross my heart, I'd rather die than break a promise
There's a poetry to bein' blunt and honest
Baby, yeah, I want this—I'm all in

[?] the way you drag your feet
Fightin' with my past—why don't you fight with me? (Baby, come on)
Everything you got is everything you see
Don't go lookin' back when everything in front of you is me, 'cause

I know you're not sure
Like I never could be more than (Yeah yeah yeah)
The man I was
Just see what this could become (Yeah yeah yeah)

Don't you know you're everything I ever wanted?
Cross my heart, I'd rather die than break a promise
There's a poetry to bein' blunt and honest
Baby, yeah, I want this—I'm all in

Oh, I know you're not sure
Like I never could be more than
The man I was
Just see what this could become (Yeah yeah yeah)

Don't you know you're everything I ever wanted?
Cross my heart, I'd rather die than break a promise
There's a poetry to bein' blunt and honest
Baby, yeah, I want this—I'm all in