

My Daddy is a hero
He helps me grow up strong
He helps me snuggle too
He reads me books
He ties my shoes
You're a hero through and through
My daddy daddy I love you

Once upon a time...

Once upon a time in the darkest of lands
There was a lady who couldn't see the light
Her demons were strong
She built her own cage
But one day her savior
Came in through the night
They fell in love
And he made her his bride
A family was all that her heart desired
The years brought a first and a second young child
The third was to follow and complete their lives

Its bedtime, tuck the babies in
Bedtime stories and lullabies we sing
It'll never be the same
The last time I know
I knew the day before

Appearances are deceptive
And suddenly one day
A hero's demeanor had started to change
Something was off
Something was strange
It seemed like his feelings had faded away
She cried herself
To sleep every night
Afraid of losing and saying goodbye
She would have fought
But he denied
Drawn to a mistress
He wanted a new life

Its bedtime, tuck the babies in
Bedtimes stories and lullabies we sing
It'll never be the same
The last time I know
I knew the day before

Its bedtime, tuck the babies in
No Daddy, no, Daddy please don't
Its bedtime, tuck the babies in
Hide us aside, bury Mommy nearby
Its bedtime, tuck the babies in

No Daddy, no, Daddy please don't
Let's hide us away, bury Mommy nearby
