

Something Beautiful

Slapshock

I'm keeping you away
To the sound of my mistake
How can I be so blind
To take what is not mine
All my chances washed away
To this cold and lonely day
And I run to you, run to you

I want you to remind me
This life is something beautiful
I keep on forgetting
That I should run and take control

I've been wasting all my time
And I'm left so far behind
I've been waiting for that day
When I can say what I want to say
My emotions running high
And these wings are meant to fly
Can I just fall down
On this concrete ground

I want you to remind me
This life is something beautiful
I keep on forgetting
That I should run and take control

I tie my hands
I do this once a year
When no one seems to care
I tried to move
But I fell flat on my face
And pain is on a taste
Could you be the knife
Sharp as you can be
And cut me until you see
All my blood drifting over me
And I'm down on my knees

I want you to remind me
This life is something beautiful
I keep on forgetting
That I should run and take control
