

Read Between the Lines

Slash

Another offering, another open door
Another effort you ignore
Story line I purged so blatantly
Still you never notice me

Still await for you to come around in time
Still await for you to read between the lines
Come on, come on, read between the lines

Another glance, another hint of what I want
The subtle in your window falls
Still deny if I could only make you see
I would give you what you need

Still await for you to come around in time
Still await for you to read between the lines
Come on, come on, read between the lines

It's been so long, there are times I start to question
If the colons allowed in line
Is it so wrong longing for what can't be mentioned
You're too headstrong, taken me just one try
Oh, just one try

Come on, come on, read between the lines
Come on, come on, it's there for you to find
Come on, come on, it's obvious, I don't pretend
Oh oh

Still await for you to come around in time
Still await for you to read between the lines
Come on, come on, read between the lines
Still await for you to come around in time
Still await for you to read between the lines
Come on, come on, read between the lines